Car burst into flames on Ridgeway Ave.

A car being taken to the junk yard burnt up before getting there. Jason Brown of Falmouth was driving a 1999 Chevy Cavalier north on Ridgeway Ave. around 11:30 a.m. on February 26 when it burst into flames. Brown told officers that the cars brakes went out, it began to overheat and then caught fire. The car was owned by Rose Lawson of Falmouth. Falmouth Fire Department was dispatched to the fire scene and quickly extinguished the blaze. Photo by Jessie Beckett.

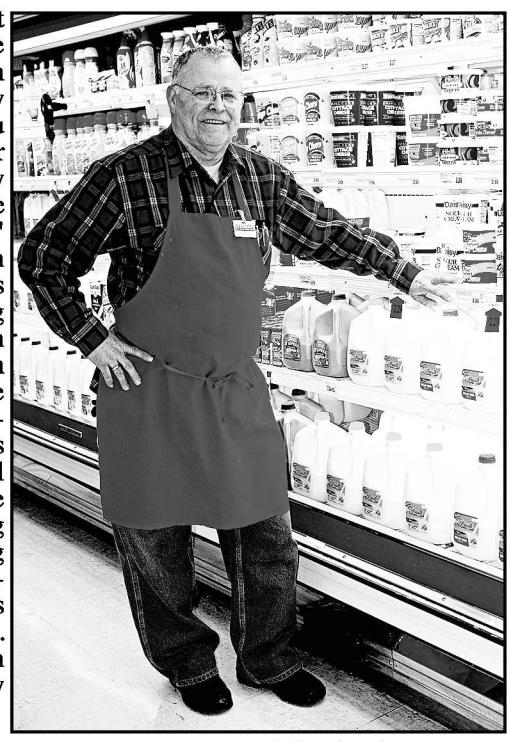

Lonnie Gregg to retire from Wyatt's SuperValu after 40 years of dedicated service

By Jackie Vaughn, Reporter

For 40 years, customers shopping at Wyatt's SuperValu have been greeted by a warm and familiar face. Whether it be with a hearty hello, the joke of the day or the latest town news, lifelong Falmouth resident Lonnie Gregg has always been there to make you feel welcome, provide some laughter and assist you in any way he can.

But unfortunately all good things must come to an end as is the case with Lonnie's career at the locally-owned grocery store. After four decades of dedicated service, he has officially announced his retirement. His last day at his "home away from home" will be Saturday, March 8. This will be a bittersweet occasion for Lonnie. Not only will it mark his 62nd birthday but it will also be the day that he bids farewell to his work family, friends and customers that he has interacted with on a daily basis for many great years.

"In all the time I've been going to Wyatt's I've never known Lonnie not to have a smile on his face and a kind word to say," said Falmouth Outlook Editor Debbie Dennie. "I don't know if it will ever be the same without him being there to say 'hello' or telling you something funny or interesting as only he can. He will be missed by so many."

Lonnie began his career at Wyatt's after graduating from Pendleton County High School in 1970. He started at the bottom like most kids out of high school performing the duties of stocking shelves, bagging groceries, and carrying customers items to their car. He later was put in charge of the dairy and frozen food section.

The only lapse in time in his career at Wyatt's came in 1982-1984 when he joined the Pendleton County Sheriff's Department as chief deputy sheriff under Don Mays.

He returned to Wyatt's in 1985 and was soon promoted to

Sharp Middle School program celebrates the arts

By Roger McKinney, Reporter

In the February 20 Board of Education meeting Chairman Mark Ross was out of town and Vice Chairman Dr. William Verax took his place.

Phillip A. Sharp Middle School Principal Rhonda Moore introduced Art Teacher Lauren Elliot and a number of her students, who had produced an exhibit with an animal theme: a horse, a bear, an owl, a wolf, a rabbit, a squirrel and a turkey. The young artists had used a white pencil on black paper as their medium. They controlled shading by hatching and cross hatching.

Three Sharp Middle School students talked about all the arts at length and discussed what creativity meant to them individually. They presented a video that showed performances of Sharp student artists.

Principal Laura Pugh from Southern Elementary and Principal Rhonda Moore from Phillip A. Sharp Middle School, gave detailed site based council presentations. They talked about the on- going educational process and explained how it could be improved. After their presentations were completed they opened up the floor to questions from the school board. Then, various issues were discussed.

President of the Pendleton County League of Women Voters Angela Hornbeck addressed the gathering in regard to the PCHS Youth Leadership Program. She explained that currently the members of Youth Leadership were learning about the dynamics of local government by attending the meetings of the school board, the city councils and the fiscal court.

Superintendent of Pendleton County Schools Anthony Strong congratulated the members of the PCHS Student Technology Leadership Program on their projects, which had qualified for state competition. Superintendent Strong also congratulated the two PCHS recipients of the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Award.

Strong introduced the Pendleton County School System's new Director of Buildings and Grounds Ryan Sergent.

Other business conducted by the Pendleton County Board of Education in the February 20, 2014 meeting:

• Approved the 2014-2015 Family Resource Youth Service Center's Two Year Program Plan

• Approved Emergency Management Security Camera Agreement with the understanding that the School Board be allowed to review

Another round of ice and snow

By Debbie Dennie, Editor

Looking forward to March coming in like a lamb and hoping for a glimpse of spring being just around the corner? Well those thoughts were wiped out quickly Sunday around noon as the rain began freezing on the woven wire fence and the trees.

Later in the afternoon the sleet began to fall and overnight saw the frigid temperature take another dive. It was around 12 degrees with wind, it makes it feel like minus 1 below zero. Motorists woke up to snow covered roadways. Here we go again, winter just won't let go.

State and county crews were out Sunday evening salting, throwing cinders and plowing roads. Falmouth city crew was out Monday morning plowing the streets.

A level one snow emergency was issued for the county Saturday evening and running up until 10 a.m. on Monday, March 3.

Some businesses in the county and city were closed. Pendleton County Schools were closed. The schools have missed 21 days as of Monday.

Now the newspaper contacted Pendleton County weatherman Lonnie Gregg to see how the snow chart was going. Gregg said, "The Pendleton County opossum had a measurement of five-and a-half inches of snow as of Monday, March 3. Gregg added that he did not count the light dusting of snow on February 23. "That was heavy flurries," he chuckled. "The Pendleton County opossum told the Punxsutawney groundhog to move over." According to the old wives tale we have just one more snow.

So maybe we can believe that if March came in like a lion it will go out like a lamb.

The snow chart below is only measurements that Gregg measured from his home. Any snow that was not measurable, flurries or light dustings did not

"What is church?" ~ April 10

Christ-followers in Pendleton County are meeting at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, April 10, to discuss what it means to be His church: how we can love one another from His abundance of perfect love, how we can grow together into His likeness, and how we can best spread the good news of the Kingdom to our neighbors.

Before the meeting, they will be praying through and meditating on Luke 10:1-11, as well as the following definition of "church":

"[Church is] the presence of Jesus among His people, [who are being] called out as a spiritual family to pursue His mission on this planet." - Neil Cole (see http://www.cmaresources.org/organic-church-definition)

If you're interested to participate in this time of prayer, fellowship, and strategic discussion, please contact Jeff at jeffherron@hushmail.com or phone him at 859-444-2671 for details on the meeting location, which is still being determined.

assistant manager on April 1.

"I called home and told my family that I had been named assistant manager and of course everybody thought it was a joke since it was April Fool's Day," laughed Lonnie.

It was no joke though and Lonnie became one of the mainstays of the Wyatt's SuperValu family. He since has assisted in all aspects of the grocery store and worked wherever there has been a need for him.

"I've done a little bit of everything in my career here but you can usually find me somewhere near the milk case," said Lonnie. "I'm sure everybody has heard 'Lonnie Gregg to aisle nine, Lonnie Gregg to aisle nine' at some point or another."

Lonnie has seen quite a bit in his 40 years at Wyatt's. From expansion in the old building to the construction of a new store, from the destruction of the 'Flood of 1997' to the grand re-opening in the disaster's aftermath, he's been there for it all.

"The flood had to be one of the most devastating things that the store ever went through," recalled Lonnie. "It was doubtful that we would even come back. When Ruby (Wyatt) called me and said we would re-open, it was the greatest news I'd ever heard."

Lonnie's service and commitment to the store and its customers knows no bounds. He has always gone out of his way to help and satisfy each and every person that shops there.

"I remember one time I carried a lady's groceries to her car," recalled Lonnie with a grin on his face. "Now, she had six kids and a dog and was driving a Volkswagon. I managed to squeeze all 14 bags of her groceries in there and she complained that her bread was smashed! I never said a word. I just went and got her a new loaf. That's what customer satisfaction is all about."

Lonnie has nothing but praise for the Wyatt family and the work opportunity they presented him. Not only has he gotten to work for an outstanding, local family but the job has also provided him with the means to stay in touch with the community and the people that live here.

"Not many people get to work for nice people like Abe, Ruby and Dixie," said Lonnie. "You won't find any better family to work for. They care about the people and the community. If everybody had a family like the Wyatts to work for, they would stay at their job for 40 years too."

Lonnie's sentiments for the Wyatt family were returned in equal for him by Dixie Wyatt who said, "Lonnie is like family to me. He's like the brother I never had. He is the 'good humor' person around here who can just keep you going with his stories. He's the ideal employee too. We're not going to let him get too far away. We've already told him that he can't turn in his key."

Lonnie's job at Wyatt's has afforded him the opportunity to raise a family, make sure his kids went onto college and had the chance to have families of their own.

Lonnie married Regina (Mullins) on June 13, 1970 and through this union three sons were born - Shannon, Jason and Brandon. The couple has six grandchildren - Hunter, Hannah, Seth, Luke, Kip and Perry.

His wife and sons have all worked for Wyatt's at some point or another in their lifetime. Regina has been a cashier and bookkeeper while his sons have all been stockers/baggers.

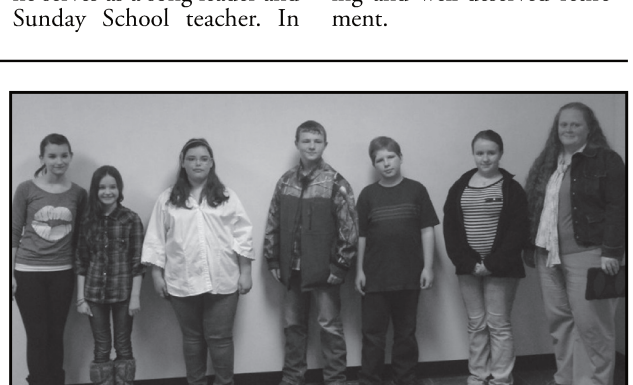

In addition to his dedication to Wyatt's, Lonnie performs a number of other services to the community. He has been a school bus driver for the Pendleton County School System for 26 years and will continue to serve in this capacity. He has been a high school/youth basketball referee for 44 years and an umpire for 42 years. Lonnie has coached softball/baseball and some basketball in his 20 year coaching career. He is a lifelong member of Turner Ridge Baptist Church where he serves as a song leader and Sunday School teacher. In addition, he is a member of the singing group Mister Timmy and the Supper Table Gang. The group donates countless hours singing at festivals, churches, rest homes, restaurants and other local events. They have been "pickin' and grinnin'" at Howard's Place in Falmouth every Friday night for 10 years. Lonnie has been involved with countless committees, organizations, clubs and volunteer groups. He is or has been a member of the Turner Ridge Cemetery Board, Pendleton County Recreation Committee, President of the Kincaid Park Board, a VIP with the Falmouth Police Department, and more. Wherever there is a need, Lonnie can be counted on to fill the void.

When asked what he will miss the most upon retiring from Wyatt's, Lonnie replied, "I'm going to miss my Wyatt's family and my conversations with customers the most. You know...for 40 years if you wanted to know something, you either read The Outlook, watched T.V. or talked to Lonnie Gregg at Wyatt's."

Pendleton County Judge Executive Henry Bertram has proclaimed Saturday, March 8 as "Lonnie Gregg Day." If you get the chance, stop by Wyatt's SuperValu, say your farewells to Lonnie and wish him the best on his upcoming and well-deserved retirement.

Accreditation of 911 Dispatch Center recognized

Severe Weather Awareness Week proclaimed

By Roger McKinney, Reporter

Pendleton County Emergency Manager Mike Moore addressed the judge and magistrates of the Pendleton County Fiscal Court concerning the completion of the accreditation process by the 911 Dispatch Center. Emergency Manager Moore talked about the sacrifice and the training required to achieve accreditation. He discussed quality control and how the state of performance excellence was maintained and raised continually to a higher level.

Judge/Executive Henry Bertram thanked the dispatchers for their service. He said that no one could truly realize or appreciate how hard the dispatchers worked to provide a safety net for their fellow citizens.

Judge Bertram issued the following proclamation: Severe weather can strike at any time in Kentucky, causing extensive and long- lasting effects upon Kentuckians and impacting personal lives, the social structure and the economy on both the local and state levels; and whereas, Pendleton County Emergency Management is charged with the responsibility of preparing Pendleton County for all forms of natural disasters, including severe weather; and whereas, PCEM cooperates with state and federal government agencies, the National Weather Service, the Kentucky Preparedness Committee, local emergency officials, and private corporations to prepare the citizens of Pendleton County for severe weather; and whereas, all Pendleton County citizens are encouraged to participate in the 2014 Statewide Tornado Safety Drill to be held on March 4, at approximately 10:07 a.m. EST; Now, therefore, Henry Bertram, along with the Pendleton County Fiscal Court and the Pendleton County Emergency Management director, do hereby proclaim March 2 through 8 as Severe Weather Awareness Week in Pendleton County, and urge all residents, as well as public and private institutions, to note its observance and take necessary action to prepare and protect our people and property that could be threatened as a result of severe storms.

Other business conducted by the Pendleton County Fiscal Court in the February 25, 20124 meeting:

• Approved the County Encroachment Ordinance.

• Approved the Tire Amnesty Agreement for June 2014.

• Approved the Champions for a Drug Free Pendleton County's plan to paint a mural on a wall of the old jailhouse.

The judge and magistrates discussed the effects of the severe winter weather on county roads and the amount of pot holes created. They explained that it took days to fix the pot holes on one road and that the county has close to 300 miles of road to repair. They requested that the driving public be both patient and careful.

Gregg announces retirement

I, Lonnie Gregg, hereby would like to announce my retirement at Wyatt's Supermarket March 8, 2014.

As Mickey Mouse once said, "Now it's time to say goodbye to all our family." My family includes the Wyatt's, the employees and the customers.

During my 40 years here at the store I have had four grocery teachers - Sam Drucker, Nels Oson, Ike Godsey and the great Abe Wyatt.

I will always continue to be a customer and supporter of Wyatt's Supermarket and the Wyatt family.

It has been rewarding to me to see the Wyatt family give back to the city, county, churches, and schools.

Not many people today get to work for nice people like Abe, Ruby, and Dixie. Thanks to them and faithful customers, my wife Regina and I were able to raise our three sons and let them have the opportunity to complete college and have families of their own.

Happy trails till we meet again.

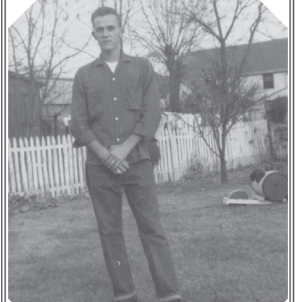

Lonnie Gregg - 40 year Wyatt's retiree.

P.S. I milked 2,080,113 gallons of milk in my career and that's NO BULL!

You know you're from Falmouth
If you know this Pee-Wee
He's always been
A part of the scenery.

This week he celebrates 75
Born and raised,
He will forever stay
Not far from the Licking
Will he ever stray.

Happy Birthday
We love you Dad!

Ooh Baby Look who's EIGHTY!!!

"Tax time"

In our society, come January, every good citizen's major concern is to start preparing for the filing of his or her annual income taxes. The challenge is to try to get all calculations complete before the deadline of April 15. Canceled checks, receipts, and interest statements, are just a few of the items that cause stress and frustration.

One is plagued with such questions such as, "How much interest did I pay?; Can I still use investment credit?; Can I depreciate this?; How much was my loss?; or Was that trip deductible?" Sometimes even the most honest person must be on guard, or he will be tempted to gouge "Old Uncle" just a little.

Since the invention of the W-2 and the computer, "Old Uncle" becomes more and more of a competitor, and becomes increasingly more difficult to "Out Fox." Payroll departments, banks, savings and loans, real estate sales, and even farm co-ops send cross-reference information that tells every penny a person has made for the current year. Since the government has a person indexed by social security number, they seem to know everything about that person, even down to the point of how many times he goes to the bathroom each day. Will this collection of information ever stop?

I have had a few battles with "Old Uncle" myself. My private record keeping is not complicated I have no desire or need to use a computer. My system is very simple: I start out by placing all receipts and canceled checks in brown grocery bags; each bag is labeled; one bag is marked "important"; one bag is marked "may be important;" and the final bag is marked "should be thrown away, but will keep in case I need it." At the end of the year I go through the three bags stapling together all the papers that I need and placing them in one lone bag, which I take to my consultant. My goal is to come out even with "Uncle." I don't want him to owe me anything, and I hope I have paid him all I need to. It took a very impressive lesson one year before I developed this philosophy.

The previous year's tax forms had been prepared by my consultant and he looked at me with a half smile and informed me that his calculations showed that I owed a large sum for both federal and state taxes. He further commented that all I needed to do was to sign the forms and insert a check in each envelope.

Boy, did my lip drop. My mood changed from relatively pleasant to a deep melancholy, as it became necessary for me to visit the bank and secure a loan in order that I could pay what I owed. After this incident I seemed to be rather "down in the mouth" and depressed for some months, thinking (What a way to start a new year!) From this point on, I have tried to break even with "Old Uncle," at the end of the year.

I suppose the most impressive statement that I have ever heard about taxes came from an old farmer whom I overheard as I was sitting in the outer office waiting for my tax consultant to do my taxes the next year. He and the old farmer were nearing the final stages of his yearly taxes, and I was able to get a side view through the slightly opened door as the young consultant handed the finished forms across the desk to the old fellow. I could tell by the consultant's voice that the farmer would not be pleased with the final tally.

He said, "Now Mr. Jones, if you will just sign your name here and make a check for $125.00 federal, and another check for $65.00 state, I will address the envelopes and see that they get in the mail this afternoon."

The old farmer, who was dressed in bibbed overalls and work boots, rubbed his beard and pulled his hat down a little, as if in deep meditation. He did not respond immediately, but after a few minutes of looking at the papers and meditating, commented, "Son, are you sure you figgered' right?"

The consultant seemed just a little nervous and responded, "Look, Mr. Jones, I put down the figures exactly as you told me and I have double checked my calculations."

"Is there any way that a person can come out even with "Old Uncle?" The farmer questioned.

The consultant came back with, "Well, your income is pretty well "set in concrete," but if you were to have a larger amount of expense, maybe that would make a difference."

The old fellow gazed back at the young man and extended the papers back to him. His final comment was,"Now don't get all worked up, but maybe we need to re-do this and make a few adjustments. All we need to do is to feed Ole' Jersey a few more bales of hay."

An encounter with an alligator

Please allow some background so this encounter can be placed in some perspective.

Wesleyan Village where Janice and I reside during the winter is hardly a resort community. It was developed for Wesleyan ministers and missionaries…frugally and is operated frugally…nice on the pocketbook.

Absent is the cookie cutter motif often seen in many villages in Florida. No huge swimming pool or exercise buildings or accoutrements which cost money. Only a recently built church that seats 650 defies this back-to-earth mentality. And, visitors are seemingly unimpressed by the church but like the back-to-nature atmosphere. And it is this dimension that is the focus of this week's article.

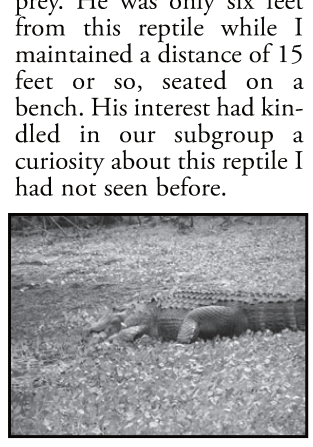

The village is nearly surrounded by farmland and old growth woodland from which various animals and birds spill over into the village: squirrel, raccoons, egrets, sand hill cranes, birds of many species, and an alligator, at least one, maybe more. A nature trail, approximately a mile in length, borders one side of the village. Occasionally, a very large osprey can be sighted high on a limbless tree waiting to catch a fish for dinner. Villagers have witnessed its dive and marvel at its wingspan, eyesight, and ability to pluck a large fish from its habitat.

Another villager observed a pair of sand hill cranes hatching a baby from a nest just over the fence from his domicile. The cranes, which mate for life, took turns sitting on the egg, male and female. The male would squawk and flap his wings at any enemy that approached the nest. And they took turns in nurturing their baby when hatched.

And, drawing increased attention in recent days is an alligator, approximately six feet long. It resides in two half acre ponds which are separated by a street which leads to the large and beautiful church which borders on Cortez Blvd. We had a visitor recently who was fascinated by its presence. An ardent wild-lifer, he explained to me that the alligator was cold-blooded and was sunning itself to raise its body temperature so that it could move quickly enough to catch edible prey. He was only six feet from this reptile while I maintained a distance of 15 feet or so, seated on a bench. His interest had kindled in our subgroup a curiosity about this reptile I had not seen before.

Three of our ladies who regularly walk for exercise paused recently on the bench where my friend and I had seen the alligator. Their conversation went something like:

D: "I don't like them; they're so ugly!"

S: "Oh, they're not so bad. Have you ever heard of an alligator eating a human?"

J: "Yeah, I think so…maybe a small child. I know they will eat dogs, small dogs at least."

D: "That kind of looks like an alligator head in that drain pipe!"

The drain was about 15 feet from where they were sitting.

S. "Yeah, kind of, but it's not moving. Probably a rock that's washed up"

J. "Or a chunk of wood, relax! It's nothing alive."

About this time, this chunk of wood moved a few inches out of the drain and it became obvious that it was the sole proprietor of the drain and that it was looking for dinner.

Our three ladies jumped from their seats and scurried back to the street, casting wary glances behind.

D. "I hear they can run really fast!"

The three of them broke into a canter, as much as their arthritis would allow when D., suddenly desisted into a walk again, smiling slightly.

S. "Aren't you afraid?"

S. and J. also slowed to a fast walk.

D."Nooo! I figure all I need to do is to out run or out walk you two, and you all remind me of Chester in Gunsmoke!"

All that could be heard for several minutes was the labored breathing of our adventuresome three!

Legislative perspective on Kentucky General Assembly

With this year's legislative session passing the halfway point last week, the pace of legislation moving between the House and Senate is set to pick up significantly in the days ahead.

Several bills have already cleared the General Assembly or are expected to soon.

That includes a bill the House finalized on Thursday to help students with diabetes or who suffer from seizures. Current law prohibits them from receiving medicine in school from anyone other than family or a licensed health professional, meaning parents often have to visit school when a nurse is not available. Now, those with diabetes will be able to self-administer insulin, and schools will be able to train staff to help them as well as those who have seizures.

Another major initiative – creating an adult-abuse registry to help ensure abusers never have the chance again to harm someone else in their care – cleared a major hurdle that day as well, when House and Senate leaders pledged their support during a press conference with Governor Beshear.

This has been a long-time priority in the House, and the Senate passed a version shortly after the press conference. It appears that a compromise will soon be reached, and that would enable care providers to know if a current or potentially new employee has had a substantiated case of elder abuse or neglect in his or her past. It is worth noting that money to create this registry was budgeted in 2012, meaning it can be operational quickly.

In addition to these health-related measures, the House approved another one last week that could have a major impact in reducing the number of people dying from cardiac arrest.

House Bill 205 would call on all high schools to include basic CPR as part of their health curriculum. Many schools are already doing this, but we want to make sure that all students have training that saves lives.

This is a major initiative of the American Heart Association, which reports that cardiac arrest strikes nearly 360,000 people a year outside of a hospital setting. Unfortunately, about 90 percent do not survive, and the lack of proper care like CPR is a main reason why. The American Heart Association estimates that, if all 50 states implement this requirement in their high schools, the country would have a million newly trained people every few years.

Another bill the House voted for last week is also designed to help others. House Bill 64, which has been through the chamber before, would give many who have been convicted of a Class D felony – the lowest of the four felony classes – a chance to have their record expunged five years after the completion of their sentence.

Many of these Kentuckians are having a difficult time finding work because of their felony record, which may have occurred years if not decades earlier. The expungement process is already allowed for misdemeanors, and there would be safeguards. For example, this would not apply if the person has a prior felony record, or if the crime involved abuse. Prosecutors and any victims would have a chance to be heard as well.

Two other bills clearing the House last week are targeted at those looking ahead to starting their education and those wondering what career to pursue as they near the end of their time in the classroom. Under the first, the state would establish a "Books for Brains" program that would build on various local efforts that are providing age-appropriate books to young children to foster a love of reading.

The other bill, meanwhile, would have state and postsecondary officials work together to post the employment rates and earnings by college degree at our public universities. This could prove to be a handy guide, especially for non-traditional students returning to the classroom.

With March just a few days away, the end of this year's legislative session is starting to come into focus. The House is expected to finalize its budget proposal in the next week or so and, as always during even-numbered years, will be ready to work with the Senate on a comprise in the session's last few days.

On a personal note, I was honored to host several county officials from Harrison, Pendleton, Robertson and Scott counties on Thursday last week as part of County Officials Day. Hundreds of local officials from throughout the state attended.

I will of course keep you updated on how the legislative session progresses during these final days. For now, please don't hesitate to let me know your thoughts or concerns, because there is still plenty of time to contact me. My address is Room 332E, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601; or you can email me at Tom.McKee@lrc.ky.gov.

To leave a message for me or for any legislator by phone, please call 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

I hope to hear from you soon.

Bill to block Bluegrass Pipeline use of eminent domain advances to cheers

By Tom Loftus
The Courier-Journal

Scores of Bluegrass Pipeline opponents cheered Wednesday as the House Judiciary Committee approved a bill that would prevent the pipeline from going through property of landowners who do not want it.

The committee voted 11-1 for House Bill 31, which says that developers of natural gas liquids pipelines do not have the power of eminent domain to gain access to land.

"I'm ecstatic," said Cindy Foster, a Scott County landowner who said she rejected offers from pipeline developers to buy an easement through her land. "I'm just so thankful that most of the committee members were sympathetic to our concerns."

The Bluegrass Pipeline is being developed by two companies—Boardwalk Bluegrass Partners and the Williams Co. It would run from Bracken County south into Kentucky's Bluegrass region and then west to Breckinridge County, where it would link to an existing pipeline that would be repurposed.

Opponents have voiced concerns about the safety of a natural gas liquids pipeline and the environmental damage that would be caused by leaking. Developers have said the line will be closely monitored and is safe, they say, far safer than other modes of transportation such as truck or rail.

Rep. David Floyd, a Bardstown Republican and a co-sponsor of HB 31, told the committee Wednesday that the bill would not block the pipeline.

"This will not necessarily affect whether or not it comes," Floyd said of the bill. But if the bill passes, Floyd said developers "are just going to have to come to an agreement with landowners or go around the landowners that don't want to have to do it."

Tom Droege, spokesman for the Bluegrass Pipeline, said in a statement after Wednesday's vote, "Kentucky already has over 12,000 miles of liquid fuels pipelines and singling out NGL (natural gas liquids) pipelines that are regulated in the same manner by the federal government is unnecessary."

Tom FitzGerald, director of the Kentucky Resources Council, said he was pleased with the bipartisan support for the bill. "This really is an issue that resonates all across the political spectrum. People don't like to be pushed around," FitzGerald said.

The bill now goes to the House floor. Rep. John Tilley, the Hopkinsville Democrat who is chief sponsor of the bill and chairman of the committee, said he believes it will pass the House. Tilley said he has not gauged the bill's chances in the Senate.

Public meetings set for proposal to lift boat motor restrictions on six small lakes

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will hold a series of public meetings to discuss a proposal to lift motor restrictions on several small department-owned lakes in the state.

A series of meetings will begin March 18 concerning Boltz Lake, Bullock Pen Lake and Corinth Lake in Grant County, Beaver Lake in Anderson County, Elmer Davis Lake in Owen County and Kincaid Lake in Pendleton County. Adjoining landowners and the angling public are encouraged to attend these meetings.

Currently, boaters cannot use a motor larger than 10 horsepower on these lakes. The proposal would lift the horsepower restriction, but only allow larger motors to run at idle speed on these lakes. Idle speed restrictions would be strictly enforced. Boat motors that are 10 horsepower or less could continue to operate at any speed.

The proposed regulation would also affect Shanty Hollow Lake near Bowling Green and Swan Lake in Ballard County. The public can submit comments concerning the proposal to lift horsepower restrictions on these two lakes during March and April by calling the department at 1-800-858-1549, or sending an email to the department at fw.fisheries@ky.gov.

The series of meetings will include the following:

BBB tips on securing your personal data

Better Business Bureau (BBB) is encouraging everyone to take a look at their "digital footprint." How much information are you sharing on social media? Do you know what information mobile device apps can access? Is the information you make available enough to allow someone to gain access to your accounts or steal your identity?

Americans are becoming more aware of the privacy implications of being online. According to a Pew Research Center survey, 86 percent of internet users have taken steps online to remove or mask their digital footprints - ranging from clearing cookies to encrypting their email.

To help secure your online information, BBB and the Department of Homeland Security offer the following tips:

• Secure devices. Keep your devices from prying eyes. Set passcodes or pass phrases (long passwords) to be sure only you can access your smartphone, tablet or PC.

• Secure accounts. Passwords are no longer the only protection from would-be hackers. When possible, enable two-factor authentication to add another layer of security. Some sites, such as Google, allow you to opt-in to two-factor authentication, which means you need both your password, and a passcode sent via text or email, to log into an account.

• Make passwords long, strong and unique. Passwords should be different for each account, have as many characters as allowed and include numbers, symbols and letters, capital and lowercase.

• Think before you app. Before downloading a mobile app, understand what information (such as your location, access to social networks, etc.) the app accesses.

• Back it up. Store digital copies of your valuable work, music, photos, and other information on an external hard drive or trusted online service.

Start With Trust. For more tips on how to stay safe online, visit dhs.gov/stopthinkconnect. For more consumer tips and information, visit www.bbb.org or call 1-800-388-2222.

Connect to end multiple sclerosis during MS Awareness Week

Multiple sclerosis is a life altering disease that affects each person in a unique and different way. MS destroys connections, divides minds from bodies, pulls people from their lives and away from one another. Therefore, it's only fitting that connections would be its greatest enemy. As more connections are formed, more knowledge is shared, more questions asked, more resources gathered, and more hope is provided to help people with MS move their lives forward.

The Kentucky-Southeast Indiana Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is connecting with people from across the nation during MS Awareness Week, March 3 - 9 to give what they know.

The National MS Society is a prominent force in forging connections among people with MS, friends and colleagues who raise awareness and funds, people who treat those with MS, and people who research ways to stop MS, restore function lost to MS and end MS forever.

You can build connections, view and share images, video, and stories about your connections on the Chapter's Facebook page at www.facebook.com/kynmss. Share your story and connect with others at www.MSconnection.org. You can create your own video story, download web banners, register to participate in Walk MS, Bike MS, or some other special event near you. Whether you volunteer, bike, walk, advocate, educate, or support - every action is a way of moving us closer to a world free of MS and shows your commitment to the MS movement. Have other great ideas about spreading awareness in your local community? Please contact us by calling 502-526-5061 or email bailey.preston@nmss.org.

"People impacted by multiple sclerosis are connecting all across the nation starting this week to combine their efforts, knowledge and hope in order to move us closer to a world free of multiple sclerosis," said Stacy Funk, chapter president.

About Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple sclerosis, an unpredictable, often disabling disease of the central nervous system, interrupts the flow of information within the brain, and between the brain and body. Symptoms range from numbness and tingling to blindness and paralysis. The progress, severity and specific symptoms of MS in any one person cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatment are moving us closer to a world free of MS. Most people with MS are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 50, with at least two to three times more women than men being diagnosed with the disease. MS affects more than 2.1 million people worldwide.

About the National Multiple Sclerosis Society

MS stops people from moving. The National MS Society exists to make sure it doesn't. The Society addresses the challenges of each person affected by MS by funding cutting-edge research, driving change through advocacy, facilitating professional education, collaborating with MS organizations around the world, and providing programs and services designed to help people with MS and their families move forward with their lives. In 2011 alone, through its national office and 50-state network of chapters, the Society devoted $164 million to programs and services that assisted more than one million people. To move us closer to a world free of MS, the Society also invested $40 million to support more than 325 new and ongoing research projects around the world. The Society is dedicated to achieving a world free of MS. Join the movement at www.nationalMSsociety.org/kyw.

Early and ongoing treatment with an FDA-approved therapy can make a difference for people with multiple sclerosis. Learn about your options by talking to your health care professional and contacting the National MS Society at www.nationalMSsociety.org/kyw or 1-800-FIGHT-MS (344-4867).

Gregg for magistrate of District 3

DARRIN W. GREGG

Please allow me introduce myself! I am Darrin W. Gregg, a lifelong resident of Pendleton County in District 3. I graduated from Pendleton County High School in 1988, am a lifelong member of Turner Ridge Baptist Church, have three children, and currently drive a school bus for the Pendleton County School System with over 20 years experience as a licensed commercial driver.

I have also been involved with youth programs in the county for over 20 years. Working with our youth is something I take pride in. I have been a volunteer youth baseball couch, umpire for little league baseball, umpire for church league softball and am a licenses KHSAA referee.

Running for magistrate is something I have thought about for several years. I am now in a position to devote my time to the folks of this county in the capacity of magistrate for District 3. I would like the opportunity to give back to my community and work with you!

Some of the issues I will tackle include everyone in my district to have access to city water. City water is important for the safety of our county and your property with fire hydrants on the water line. City water would also have an economic impact on the county by saving our residents a great deal of money. Insurance for your home and farm could be more expensive if you do not have access to city water. As one who hauls water to my home and farm it can be very costly and time consuming. Many folks, who have to do the same, agree!

The roads in District 3 are in need of some serious repairs and upkeep. Our county roads that carry a lot of traffic such as Straight Shoot need shoulders to be edged for safer travelling. Some of you may believe that Straight Shoot Road is no big deal...however, it is. It is a major east-west route for travel to I-75 for our county folks to get to work.

Many of you are aware that our county has had a significant problem with stolen street and road signs. Some folks have expressed concern that it has taken a great deal of time to have them replaced and that is a huge safety problem. Our emergency responders such as ambulance, fire or police need properly marked streets and roads so they can respond in a timely manner! I also understand that the proposed pipeline coming through our county is a big topic. As I travel throughout the District meeting the voters please make sure you express your opinion to me concerning the pipeline. Doing so will enable me to better to serve your needs in our District.

I am extremely mindful of our community, have positive energy, am budget conscious, and will work for you to make it better! My cell phone number is 859-609-9640. If you receive my voice mail please leave a message and I will return your call ASAP. My e-mail address is DWGregg69@gmail.com. I will listen, talk, negotiate, and work for you in any way that I can. Please feel free to call, send an e-mail or text message anytime! For those of you who know me, you understand that I am straight forward and I will shoot it to you straight! I guarantee that the fiscal court will know how YOU stand on our county issue; I will share your thoughts and concerns.

Robert Jones of the Morgan area and Larry McClanahan of the Hogg Ridge Road/Hwy 22 area have been instrumental in signing the necessary paperwork to file as a magistrate candidate for District 3. These two gentlemen are well respected in our community and I appreciate the fact that they have faith in me to do a great job and I thank them for their support!

I would appreciate your vote for magistrate of District 3! Darrin W. Gregg, the Straight Talk Candidate!

Meyer seeks election as magistrate

I am a lifelong resident of Pendleton County and live on a small farm on Crooked Creek Road with my husband, Luke, and my son, Lincoln, who attends Southern Elementary.

I am a 1998 graduate of Pendleton County High School, a 2001 graduate of National College of Business and Technology, and I am currently finishing my Associates Degree in Business Administration/Management at Gateway Community and Technical College and will be graduating in May.

In the past I have been self-employed as a medical transcriptionist and worked at the Internal Revenue Service.

I am actively working with residents throughout the county as well as state legislators to protect Kentucky landowners from the illegal use of eminent domain by private corporations and to protect our county's water supply and farmlands from contamination by the proposed Bluegrass Pipeline project.

In my free time I enjoy spending time with my family and beekeeping.

I believe that a strong fiscal court is essential to the future success and growth of Pendleton County. As magistrate for District 3, I will rely on my strong business and financial background and work my hardest to ensure fiscal responsibility while making sure that the county meets its obligations to the residents of Pendleton County.

Thank you for your support. I look forward to serving as magistrate for District 3.

Wil Schroder running for State Senate

Wil Schroder, candidate for Kentucky State Senate, with wife Marci.

My name is Wil Schroder, and I am running for the Kentucky State Senate. I am a lifelong Kentuckian and am married to my high school sweetheart, Marci. We reside in Wilder and are active members of the Next Chapter Church in Cold Spring where we served as youth group leaders and where I often play guitar in the worship band.

At an early age, my parents instilled in me the importance of faith, standing up for what you believe in, and honesty. Many of you voted for my dad, Justice Wil Schroder, who passed away last year from a brain tumor. Through my father's example, and by working a number of different construction and restaurant jobs, I learned the value of hard work. The lessons I learned from those jobs and from small business owners have never left me.

I am a proud graduate of the University of Kentucky and the NKU Salmon P. Chase College of Law, and I currently serve the public as a felony prosecutor in the Campbell County Commonwealth's Attorney's office. In that role, I have represented the people of Kentucky in hundreds of felony cases and am familiar with the challenges law enforcement and the counties face with the heroin epidemic.

I fight almost daily in the courtroom on behalf of Kentuckians, and I plan to bring that same passion and commitment with me to Frankfort. As your next State Senator, I will defend our conservative values, fight for Kentucky jobs, uphold the Constitution, cut wasteful government spending, and work to end the heroin epidemic. Also, like you, I value property rights and believe that the only way a company should be able to take your land is if you agree to sell it to them. As your next State Senator I will fight to protect your property rights!

I ask for your vote on May 20 in the Republican primary. If you would like to contact me or learn more about me, please visit my website at WilSchroder.com. As a state senator, I promise I will do what I believe is best for the people of Pendleton, Bracken, and Campbell counties every time!

Mineer for magistrate of District 4

RICK MINEER

Hi! I am Rick Mineer. I am a candidate for magistrate of District 4. I am a lifelong resident of Pendleton County and currently reside in the district I grew up. Having grown up on the family farm, I still operate in McKinneysburg, has instilled in me the value of hard work. I am the owner and operator of R. Mineer HVAC. The business experience I have gained from owning my own business and the work ethic I developed from working on the farm has given me the needed ability to relate to the farmers and the business I will represent if elected.

I graduated from Northern Kentucky Technical College after studying business and HVAC. I also have attended and graduated from the United Refrigeration Training Center in Cincinnati, Ohio and the Manitowoc Training Center in Manitowoc, Wisconsin.

Although I still operate the family farm, I have lived in the City of Falmouth for the past 23 years. During my time in Falmouth I have had the privilege to serve eight years on the Falmouth City Council. During my tenure on city council I attended training seminars sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Local Government, Northern Kentucky Area Development District, and the Kentucky League of Cities. This training along with my experience serving in local government have given me insight on the importance of how both the city and county governments work and the need for them to work together for the betterment of the entire community. Also, I have gained experience in how our state government interacts with local government and understand what it takes to lobby in Frankfort for Pendleton County issues.

I have served on the Falmouth Board of Adjustments, which handles issues pertaining to local zoning ordinances, which has given me a better understanding of how our zoning ordinances are administered. This will help me better understand issues that might arise for our citizens and give me the insight to help address them. I have also represented Falmouth on the Northern Kentucky Area Development District Board and the Athletic park Board. I am a member of the Democratic Executive Committee and an inter-apprentice member of the Orion Lodge F & AM, Falmouth, Kentucky.

I look forward to the opportunity to serve the citizens of Pendleton County and humbly ask for your vote on May 20, 2014.

Joyce Gillespie-Brown announces candidacy for magistrate of District 4

JOYCE GILLESPIE - BROWN

I am more than excited to announce my candidacy for magistrate of District 4 in Pendleton County. I have been a lifelong resident and was raised here by Mary Gillespie and the late Norman Gillespie. My seven siblings and I are known to the community for reaching out to others whenever the opportunity is at hand. I am also an active member of St. Francis Xavier Church. I have watched my children grow within this community and because of that, I take away several positive attributes that I have gained along the way. Whether it be working the concession stand or cheering from the sidelines, through experiences like these I have developed many relationships that I still value today.

For 34 years I have commuted to Cincinnati for my current job at Western Southern Financial Group. I am an avid member of a financial team, which I feel will only benefit me as I pursue this magistrate position and what it entails. The commitment and devotion put forth to my company shows proof to the person that I truly am. My career has been a huge part of my life for many years and I have found myself fortunate enough to enter retirement next year. That being said, I will also be able to put my full focus and attention on becoming more involved and bettering this community. In becoming an advocate for District 4, I will collaborate with elected officials to address crucial issues in hopes of positive change as the end result.

My entire life has been built on a firm foundation of morals, ethics, and faith, so I feel more than ready to serve the people of this county which I call "home."

Just remember "Joyce is the Right Choice," for District 4.

National Kidney Month: What everyone needs to know about health and treatment

March is National Kidney Month, a great time to focus on kidney health and treatment. If you don't know much about the topic, get informed - kidney disease is common and can be deadly.

In fact, kidney disease is the ninth leading cause of death in America, according to the National Kidney Foundation, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that one in three Americans are at risk for kidney disease.

Risk factors include high blood pressure, diabetes and a family history of a kidney disease.

Staying Healthy

Certain lifestyle changes can help promote healthy kidney function. Your doctor may prescribe a well-balanced diet low in cholesterol, sodium, processed foods and sugar. Get plenty of physical activity. Stay hydrated. Avoid unhealthy habits such as smoking.

Talk to your doctor about your risk and preventive steps you can take.

How Treatment Works

In a healthy body, kidneys clean the blood by removing excess fluid, minerals and wastes. However, for patients with kidney failure, kidneys don't function properly and they need a medical treatment called dialysis to clean their blood.

More than 430,000 people in the U.S. undergo dialysis at home or in clinics yearly, according to the United States Renal Data System.

There are two types of dialysis: peritoneal dialysis and hemodialysis. Peritoneal dialysis uses a cleansing fluid that is instilled into the patient's peritoneal cavity, the fluid-filled gap between the walls of the abdomen and organs, and then drained after a prescribed period of time. The patient's own peritoneal membrane acts as a natural filter for removing excess fluids and wastes.

Hemodialysis requires the patient to have a permanent access site to his or her cardiovascular system and uses a machine to remove blood from the patient, pump it through an artificial kidney that removes toxins and excess fluids, and then return the blood to the body.

Home Hemodialysis

For those undergoing hemodialysis, there is good news. At home care can benefit patients looking for more control of their care.

Traditionally, patients on hemodialysis receive treatments at a dialysis clinic three days per week, lasting between three and five hours per visit. And patients must comply with the clinic schedule, requiring them to manage their treatments around the clinic's availability.

For some, home hemodialysis (HHD) may be a better alternative. With HHD, patients and care partners perform dialysis at home after successfully completing HHD training with a nurse.

Although home hemodialysis is not a new treatment option, many patients and physicians are unaware of its benefits.

"Improvements in technology have allowed more patients to bring dialysis treatment home, which means more flexibility to maintain their normal routines," says Mark Costanzo, President of the Renal Therapies Group at Fresenius Medical Care, a manufacturer of renal care products.

March is National Nutrition Month: Enjoy the taste of eating right

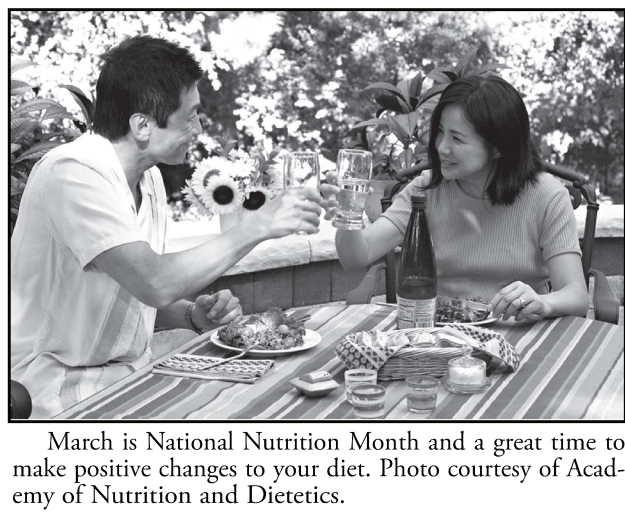

If eating right is a challenge, it may be because you are trying things you simply don't like. The key is finding options that satisfy your taste buds, say experts.

"Taste is a major influential factor driving what you eat and feed your family, so it's important to strike a balance between foods you like and those that provide the nutrients you need," says Glenna McCollum, registered dietitian nutritionist and president of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. "Taste and nutrition are not mutually exclusive."

March is National Nutrition Month, an excellent annual reminder to take the time to evaluate your diet and make positive changes you can sustain long-term.

As part of the "Enjoy the Taste of Eating Right" theme, McClollum is encouraging Americans to return to the basics of healthful eating by combining taste and nutrition to create meals that follow the recommendations of the "2010 Dietary Guidelines for Americans."

With that in mind, McClollum is providing some expert tips on how to eat right and enjoy it:

March is National Nutrition Month and a great time to make positive changes to your diet. Photo courtesy of Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics.

• Love sandwiches? Swap out white bread for whole grain to up your fiber intake. Instead of mayo, use avocado as a rich addition to your sandwich. It's more flavorful, and it's also full of fiber, potassium, vitamin C, vitamin B6, as well as other nutrients. To stay fuller longer, include fiber-rich veggies like tomatoes and cucumbers.

• Balance. While there's always room to indulge, be sure that the majority of your calories are sourced from vegetables, fruits, whole grains, lean meats, poultry, fish, eggs, fat-free or low-fat dairy, beans, nuts and seeds. You'll be filling up on all the nutrients your body needs without all the extra calories. And don't forget to limit added sugars, salt and saturated fats.

• Don't skip dessert. Many diet fads will encourage you to skip dessert, but doing so can seem like a sacrifice, which won't make for a sustainable change. Instead, seek out treats that provide nutritional benefits. For example, mango blended with low-fat milk and a splash of pineapple juice will satisfy your sweet tooth, while giving you a dose of calcium and vitamin C.

• Spice it up. A great, low-calorie way to add flavor and nutrition to meals without the fat, sugar or salt, is by incorporating beneficial herbs and spices, such as cardamom, turmeric, cinnamon cumin, thyme, basil and oregano. Citrus juices are another great addition to recipes.

• Ask for advice. Whether you need to lose weight, want to reduce your risk for disease or just want to improve your family's overall health, consider consulting a registered dietitian nutritionist (RDN), who can translate the science of nutrition into practical solutions for healthy living. Your RDN can help you plan healthy, delicious meals.

For more tips on healthful, tasty eating and to find a RDN, visit www.EatRight.org/nnm.

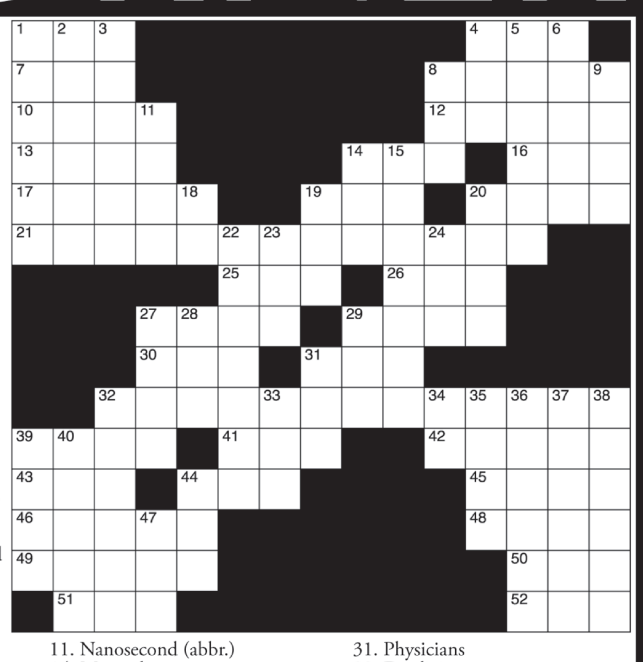

This National Nutrition Month, don't just eat for your health, eat for your happiness. Take steps to find foods that are not only nutritious, but taste great too.

Angel Sudberry honored as Teacher of the Month

By Roger McKinney, Reporter

Pendleton County High School senior Haley Pennington nominated her favorite teacher, Angel Sudberry, for a Zimmer/WNKR Teacher of the Month Award. Based on Haley's nomination letter, Zimmer Motors, located on Burlington Pike in Florence, and Radio Station WNKR 106.7 FM, located in Dry Ridge, chose Ms. Sudberry as their award recipient for February 2014.

Ms. Sudberry was presented a Teacher of the Month Award Certificate on Friday, February 21 and she and her seventh period English class were treated to a pizza party in the PCHS Cafeteria. Haley Pennington was the party's guest of honor.

Southern Elementary to hold Reading Night ~ March 11

Come to Southern Elementary on Tuesday, March 11 for a fun-filled evening of reading games and activities. This year, the theme for Literacy Night will be "Camp Read-a-Lot." Reading will begin at 6 p.m. immediately following the P.T.O. meeting. Stat Man from B105 will be making a special guest appearance.

There will be six different stations available for families to visit. Camp Read-a-Lot will offer everyone the chance to Read Beneath the Stars, enjoy Game Night, listen to a book and make a Puppet Pal, visit Lake Wanna Read, have fun Building Words, and follow the directions to make a S'more! Everyone will receive a punch card and have the opportunity to visit at least three stations. The school will also be encouraging each family to fill out a Reading Pledge to spend time reading together every day.

Kentucky rising junior may win scholarship, photo shoot

A rising junior at one of Kentucky's public or private high schools will win a $500 scholarship and a photo shoot at his or her school through the "Promote Your School" scholarship contest, sponsored by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

To enter, the student must submit an essay about one of these subjects:

- What my aspiration for my generation is.
- How I am preparing for my future.
- How my education plans will affect my community.
- What a middle school student should do in high school to prepare for college.

The essay must be no more than 200 words long and cannot mention the student's name, school, county or community. The essay topic must be shown at the top of the page. The student's name, address and high school must be listed at the bottom of the essay. The student must be a junior during the 2014-2015 school year. For more information, visit www.kheaa.com/website/contest/intro.

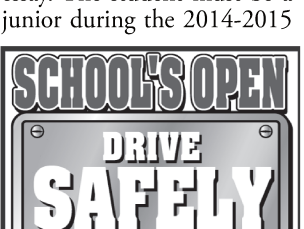

Photos from the winning school will be used in KHEAA publications and on KHEAA websites.

To enter, mail your essay to KHEAA Publications, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602. You may also email your essay to publications@kheaa.com or fax it to (502) 696-7574. The winner will be chosen by a committee of KHEAA employees. The deadline for submissions is May 31.

Students from high schools that have been featured in the past five years - J. Graham Brown, Sacred Heart, Bowling Green, Green County and Williamstown - are not eligible to enter this year's contest.

KHEAA is the state agency that promotes college awareness, provides free college planning materials and administers state student aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES).

School District accepting nominations for Outstanding Employee of the Year

We can all think of someone while we were in school that made a difference to us. Most of us might remember a particular teacher or instructional assistant that helped us learn. To some it might have been the lunch lady that gave an extra scoop of mash potatoes, or that bus driver that waited the extra second as a students was running out the door late, or the custodian that helped us unlock a jammed locker. Maybe some remember a principal or district administrator that encouraged us on a test or at an event. Regardless of who it was, the district wants to honor them for what they have done for the children and the schools.

Pendleton County Schools is asking for nominations from the schools and the community for the outstanding certified and classified employee of the year. To be nominated, the employee should exhibit qualities that show they made a difference in the life of a student, or make a difference in the success of the school. Nomination forms are available at the Board of Education office & on the district website www.pendleton.kyschools.us. Nominations for these recognitions will be accepted in the office of the Pendleton County Board of Education until March 10, 2014. A committee consisting of representatives from each of the buildings will select the recipients of these awards.

These awards will be presented at the annual Pendleton County Chamber of Commerce Banquet and Awards Ceremony on April 12. The School District would like to thank the Chamber for allowing them the time during their program to recognize these outstanding employees. If you have any questions please contact Billie Jo Chaplin at 654-6911.

Cabinet announces annual "Capture the Earth" middle school digital photography contest

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (EEC) has kicked off its fourth-annual "Capture the Earth" middle school digital photography contest for all Kentucky students in grades 6-8.

The "Capture the Earth" photo contest is open to all Kentucky middle school students. Judges will look for originality and creativity, photo composition, and a brief explanation of how well the photograph celebrates the beauty and diversity of Kentucky and encourages others to care about the state's environment through stewardship and conservation.

"The goals of our student photography contest are twofold," said Energy and Environment Cabinet Secretary Len Peters. "First, we want students to get outside, explore their natural surroundings and connect with nature. Second, this contest enables students to use their creativity and practice critical thinking skills by taking digital photos and describing in writing how their photo can encourage others to be better environmental stewards."

EEC will accept entries until 4:30 p.m. April 4, 2014. The winner will receive lodging for two nights at a Kentucky State Resort Park of the winner's choosing with his or her family. Middle school students may email one photograph as an attachment to Kidsphotocontest@ky.gov. Official contest rules are available at http://eec.ky.gov/Pages/earthday.aspx.

Online security can help protect you from thieves

The recent hacking theft of a large retailer's database of millions of credit and debit card numbers should make everyone, even students, more careful about safeguarding their hard-earned money from cyber thieves. The following measures can help, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Never provide personal information such as Social Security number, bank account or credit card numbers in response to a phone call, fax, letter or email. If you get an email from a bank or company with which you do business, don't click on any links in the email. The link may lead you to a fake web page run by thieves hoping you'll enter personal information, or it may install spyware or malware on your computer. Instead, sign in through the website you normally use when you do business with that firm.

Never provide bank, credit card or other sensitive data when visiting a website that doesn't explain how your personal information will be protected, including the use of encryption to safely transmit and store data.

If you're using an ATM card or debit card, ensure no one standing nearby can see your personal identification number (PIN).

On your personal computer, install a free or low-cost firewall to stop intruders from gaining remote access to your PC. Download and frequently update security patches offered by your operating system and software vendors to correct weaknesses that a hacker could exploit.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). Student aid programs can help pay college costs

The federal government sponsors numerous financial aid programs that can help students and their parents pay college expenses. This brief summary from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) describes the more common federal grant and loan programs. Grants generally do not have to be repaid, but loans do.

- Federal Pell Grant: Pell Grants provide up to $5,645 per year for undergraduates with financial need.
- Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant: grants that provide up to $4,000 per year for undergraduate students who have exceptional financial need.
- Federal Perkins Loan: loans for students with exceptional financial need. Undergraduates can get up to $5,500 per year, while graduate students can get up to $8,000 per year.
- Direct Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans: These loans are available to undergraduate, graduate and professional students. The amount students may borrow depends on their year in school.
- Federal PLUS Loan: Parents of dependent undergraduate students may qualify for PLUS Loans, depending on the parents' credit ratings. The amount available depends on how much other financial aid the student receives. Graduate and professional students may apply for PLUS Loans if they have exhausted their Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loan eligibility.

The free application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is used to apply for all of these programs. Families seeking a PLUS Loan must also submit a separate application.

PCHS announces scholarship program

Pendleton County High School announces the local scholarship program for any eligible senior in the Class of 2014. Scholarship applications will be available online beginning February 25, 2014 on the Pendleton County High School webpage under the Counseling Department link. Scholarship CD's will also be available for checkout in the Counseling Office for those seniors without online access.

Seniors may go online and access applications at their convenience.

Mrs. Carrie Wade met with all seniors this past week to provide information relative to the local scholarship release. Seniors were provided a listing of available scholarships along with a brief statement of criteria to aid in planning as well as a handout of "Tips and Reminders" to assist in completing and organizing scholarship application information.

Thanks to the hard work and generosity of the many community organizations and individuals who sponsor the various scholarships, the local scholarship program is well established at Pendleton County High School. These resources provide funds to assist and support graduating seniors in taking their first step in their education beyond high school.

Scholarship recipients will be announced and recognized at the annual Pendleton County High School Senior Scholarship and Awards Night - date TBD.

The deadline for return of completed local scholarships and supporting documents to the PCHS Counseling Office is 4 p.m. on Tuesday, March 25. No late applications will be accepted - NO EXCEPTIONS.

"Wall of Fame" nominations being accepted

The Pendleton County Board of Education started, in 1993, recognizing outstanding graduates of Pendleton County Schools who have made outstanding contributions and/or achievements in their life. This program was called "Wall of Fame" and each year recognizes a past Pendleton County Alumni who has made "unique and special contributions to society through their work or other notable activities." Each year the award recipient(s) are recognized during commencement exercises at Pendleton High School and their picture/bio portrait is displayed on the walls of the high school.

Nomination forms are available at the Board of Education office and on the district website www.pendleton.kyschools.us. Nominations for this recognition will be accepted in the office of the Pendleton County Board of Education throughout the year but until March 28, 2014 to be eligible for this year's consideration.

The criteria are as follows:

- Graduate of a Pendleton County School
- Must have made a "unique and special contribution to society through work or other notable activities."
- Nominations will be held and considered for five (5) years. After five years, a new nomination will need to be submitted.

Nomination forms for the 2014 Wall of Fame may be sent to:

Wall of Fame, Pendleton County Board of Education, 2525 Highway 27 North, Falmouth, KY 41040.

A selection committee consisting of the board chairman, superintendent, high school principal, president of Pendleton County Chamber of Commerce and the Student Council president at Pendleton County High School will select the winning candidate.

If you have questions regarding the "Wall of Fame" program, please call 859-654-6911, ext 2110.

Ladycats close season in districts

While the Pendleton County Ladycats had a game plan to offset the experience and inside presence of the Harrison County Fillies, shots didn't fall for them and they ended their season with a first round loss in district play, falling 44-18.

"For the most part we were getting the shots we wanted but couldn't get them to fall," Ladycat Varsity coach Scott Collins pointed out.

The Ladycats fell behind early by only scoring four points in the opening quarter and the Fillies continued to pour it on throughout the game. Fillie Center Jordan Dorem scored 26 points to provide the inside punch that PC couldn't stop.

Isabella Hall scored 12 points for the Ladycats and Anna Askren added four 4th quarter points.

Wildcats ousted from districts

By Sam McClanahan, Reporter

The Pendleton County Wildcats hosted border rival Harrison County last week in the 38th District Tournament with a berth in the 10th Region Tournament at stake. Unfortunately, the season came to an end with a 64-36 loss at the hands of the Thorobreds.

Senior Dillon Pulliam scored 10 of his 16 points in the first quarter as Harrison County raced out to a 19-4 advantage.

Poor shooting by the home team lead to the Thorobreds maintaining its double-digit lead throughout the second half as the Cats found themselves trailing 30-14 at the half.

Pendleton County was able to make things interesting in the opening minutes of the second half, as the Cats trimmed the deficit to 11 points but would get no closer. A quick run by the Thorobreds, led by junior D.J. Jenkins, who scored eight of his team-high 18 points in the third quarter, expanded the lead to 20 as Harrison County cruised the rest of the way.

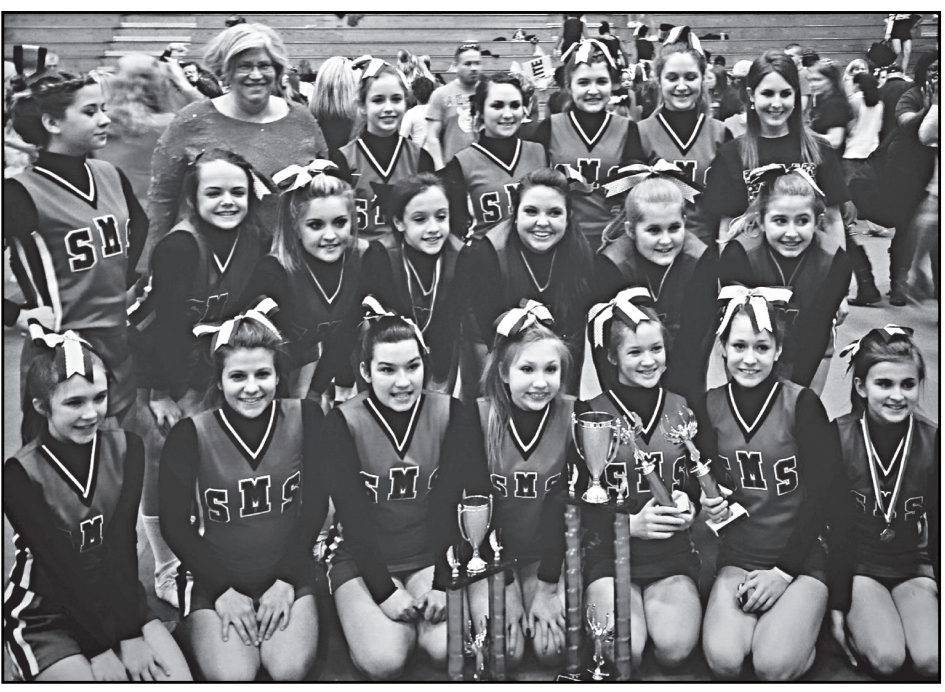

"We had a lot of empty possessions and they were able to capitalize in the first half," said head coach Ed Cravens. "Their size and length presented problems for us throughout the night but I am proud of the way we competed," he continued.

Following the game, Cravens said he spoke to the team and thanked them all for the effort put forth throughout the season.

"I thanked the guy's for their hard work and specifically the group of seniors for showing good leadership. It has been an honor for me to be in this position for the past two years and I have made a lot of friendships with parents, teachers and administration in Pendleton County. I believe the future for the program is bright and I have no regrets, I just wish this group of kids could have enjoyed victory more often."

Sharp CheerCats take first place

The Sharp CheerCats Competition Squad has had a successful season recently taking first place but also overall grand champion. In the Just Keep Dreaming competition in Bourbon County, they placed first in Medium Division and later in the competition was named the grand champion of the competition. "The girls performed their routine very well and showed a lot of great energy on the floor! It was an incredible way to end the season after nine long months of non-stop work," Sharp CheerCat Coach Abby Cunningham commented. "The future looks bright for these cheerleaders!" Earlier in the season the CheerCats received second at Scott High Competition in the medium division. Front row, from left: Cassidy Reed, Hailie Simpson, Lydia Gosney, Haley Volz, Baileigh Tackett, Heather Rick, Madison Wanstrath. Back row: Halley Pensinger, Coach Darlene Wright, Hannah Hart, Chloe Baumgartner, Adrienne Pugh, Whitney Manor, Coach Abby Cunningham Middle Row from Left: Kinley Childers, Brooke Browning, Anna Baxter, Autumn Hall, Teri Stewart, Macey Wright.

What you should know about acute heart failure

It's easy to be misled by the many misconceptions about heart disease -- for example -- that it only affects the elderly or those with unhealthy diets.

But in reality, every 40 seconds someone in America dies from heart disease, making it a leading cause of death in the country.

One of the most impactful heart diseases affecting millions of Americans is acute heart failure (AHF), which significantly reduces life expectancy and impacts quality of life.

Although HF sounds final, it does not mean the heart has actually "failed" or stopped. Rather, it occurs when the heart is unable or "fails" to pump enough oxygen-rich blood through the body.

AHF can occur in people who have never had heart failure (HF) before or when people with chronic HF suffer critical episodes where symptoms become worse and urgent hospital treatment is required.

AHF is not the same as a heart attack, cardiac arrest, or a heart rhythm abnormality, although those conditions and others may contribute to the AHF episode.

The most common symptoms of AHF include shortness of breath, known as dyspnea, which can substantially incapacitate a person. Fluid build-up in the lungs and throughout the body is another common symptom and is often described by patients as a sensation that feels close to drowning.

"Every episode of AHF results in a downward spiral of worsening health and damage to vital organs such as the heart and kidneys which decreases the patient's chance of surviving another episode," says Dr. Hal Skopicki a cardiologist at Stony Brook Medical Center in New York. "Anyone experiencing AHF symptoms should seek immediate medical attention."

Patients at-risk of AHF should understand that seeking prompt, accurate diagnosis and treatment is critical to long-term survival. Then, once discharged from the hospital, education and support are keys to making the necessary lifestyle changes that can help avoid another episode.

The American College of Cardiology has more information about AHF at cardiosmart.org.

Take steps to learn more about this life-threatening disease and educate your love ones.

Look for youth fast pitch/baseball sign-up forms

Pendleton County Recreation is finishing up their final organization of the spring fast pitch and baseball leagues and registration forms were distributed the last week of February.

Early Bird registration of $50 will end March 14.

Registration of $60 will end March 27.

Any registration turned in after March 28 will be $75.

Registration forms will be available starting February 24 at:

- Pendleton County local government website www.pendletoncounty.ky.gov and click on Recreation/Sports;
- Pendleton Recreation Department at Griffin Fitness Center between hours of 5-9 p.m., Monday-Friday;
- Front offices of Southern Elementary, Northern Elementary or Sharp Middle School;
- Distributed to males in the appropriate grades at Southern, Northern and Sharp;
- Available at Wildcat Baseball Youth Clinic/Meet the Team on March 8 starting at 2:30.

While final division set-ups will be determined by number of participants, generally 4-year-olds through 1st grade will be in T-ball, 2nd and 3rd graders in Machine Pitch and 4th-6th graders in Kid's Pitch.

First practices are planned for the week of April 7, weather permitting.

NOTICE OF APPROVED ORDINANCE

The Pendleton County Fiscal Court has approve the following Ordinance entitled as follows:

PENDLETON COUNTY FISCAL COURT
ORDINANCE NO. 623

An ordinance of and by the Pendleton County Fiscal Court laying out regulations, guidelines and penalties for dealing with Right-of-Way Encroachment and Construction Permit policy.

This Ordinance provides for, among other things, the process by which individuals, governmental agencies and utilities may obtain access to county roads and to perform work upon the right-of-way of any county road. The Ordinance provides for the process of obtaining permits for said work and the associated fees. The Ordinance sets forth requirements which must be met for excavation, safety and drainage. The Ordinance also addresses restrictions for entrances and related roadway modifications. The Ordinance also provides for the method of enforcement and penalties for violations of its provisions.

A full copy of the approved Ordinance is available for inspection at the office of the Pendleton County Judge/Executive, Courthouse, Falmouth, Kentucky. The Ordinance was considered for passage at the meeting of the Pendleton County Fiscal Court at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday February 25, 2014 in the Fiscal Court Meeting Room of the Pendleton County Courthouse at Falmouth, Kentucky. The Ordinance was unanimously approve at this meeting.

"His Splendor covers the heavens, and the earth is full of His praises."
~ Habakkuk 3:3

Berlin Baptist

We invite all to come and worship with our family of believers. Sunday services begin with Sunday school at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m., and Sunday night services are held at 7 p.m., message by Bro. Dan Black.

This past Sunday was a wonderful time in the Lord at Berlin Baptist church. Bro. Dan's message was taken from Luke 5:17-31 and titled, "True repentance changes all aspects of a person's life."

Blanket Creek

The message this week was, "What Christians must have to grow." Matthew 5:6 tells us we must have a hunger for the Lord's word. I Peter 2:2 says we must have a hunger to worship the Lord. The best way to do that is through prayer. We must have a heart for the lost and pray for them daily. Galatians 6: 1-5 talks about happiness for the lonely. I know that sounds odd, but we can help the lonely by spending time with them, praying for them and sharing a meal with them. We must have honesty in our love for the Lord. God's love is a gift we need to share and you must have God in your heart.

Special music was by little Miss Molly Henry followed by Leck Trent. The youth presented Darlene Simpson with a check for $288 that they raised for Sunrise Children's Services. We are very proud of our youth and the children will benefit greatly from this gift. We also started a trash can ministry. Anyone who would like prayer by the church at Wednesday night prayer service is encouraged to put their request in the trash can along with their despair and anxiety.

Looking for a church? Come check us out on Broadford Rd. at 9:45 a.m., and 11 a.m. Have a blessed week.

Butler Methodist

What is the "perfect" Jesus talks about and promises me? Being perfect in a broken world is hard to do if not impossible. The good days are ahead of us so we continue to fight temptation and continue to trust God to use what He has given us. One man was perfect, Jesus.

Our church will be helping with the Community Garden in Butler once again this Summer. Ash Wednesday service will be held at 7 p.m., on March 5. The Lenten Bible study, "24 Hours That Changed the World," will be held at the River Valley Nursing Home at 7 p.m., on March 12. Our new basketball ministry is held at our gym each at 6 p.m., every Friday night except for the third Friday night. Newport Aquarium Faith Week-end is Saturday March 8 and Sunday March 9.

Please pray for Mary Ann's brother, Bobbie Siebel, Frank's friend, Barb Shelton, Kathy Craddock, Joyce Tucker, and praises that John Charles Losey came to visit during Sunday morning services, Frank's procedure went great, Tammy and Ed made it home safely, Brenda's neck is better and we have a wonderful church family.

Chapel Of Praise

The Chapel of Praise Assembly of God is located at the intersection of Highway 159 and Lenoxburg Road in Pendleton County. We are a Pentecostal denomination. We love the Lord Jesus Christ, the Father God and the Holy Spirit, three in one! As of March we are searching for a new pastor. Our minister and his family have moved back to Oklahoma. We would love to have you stop in and visit with us anytime. Sunday morning Sunday school start at 9:30 a.m., and morning worship begins at 10:30 a.m. Our midweek service is at 7 p.m., on Wednesday. Starting at 7 p.m. every Monday night the church is open to come and pray! The church phone number is 654-6006 and our address is 1562 Highway 159 N, Falmouth, Ky., 41040.

God bless you this week. Allow the Bible to guide you into all truth in this life.

Falmouth Baptist

Blessings from the Falmouth Baptist Church. We invite and encourage you to stop in and worship with us at Fourth and Maple. Great things are happening here, not only within the building, but out in the community as well. We hope to be able to report next week that we reached our goal to collect 500 cans of soup for the Community Food Pantry in February. During March the push will be to collect lots of pasta for the pantry.

Bro. Cohen's message Sunday morning was about the blessing of repentance. The opportunity to turn from sin and turn to Christ. Luke 13:3 tells us, "Unless you repent, you too will all perish." Everyone has to die, that's part of being human. But not everyone needs to stay dead. Jesus promises that those who believe in Him will not perish but have eternal life, John 3:16. There is absolute joy in true repentance!

Falmouth Wesleyan

Sunday, February 23, we were reminded in I John 4:1-6 how to be firm in Christ in an infirm world.

Christians need to be discerning of what is being said concerning Jesus in the world. The world is filled with those who deny Christ as God in the flesh. Many great things can be said about Jesus, yet if His incarnation in the flesh is denied, it is not of the Truth.

Christians also need to declare what is said concerning what is in them. They are now children of God, and have overcome the lies of the world. Jesus is greater than the one who is keeping the world in the bondage of sin through lies. Let us declare this truth to ourselves and realize the power we have to continue to overcome the world.

Lastly, Christians must disown that which is of the world. We are to stand fast on the principles of Scripture. Christians are not to listen to what the world says, yet we are to speak the truth in a world of lies. If we live and do as the world does, we will quickly embrace it. Satan is cunning and subtle and will mix truth with lies to draw people away from the real Jesus of our salvation. We must set ourselves apart from the world and give ourselves completely to God. We will be used by one, or the other.

Sunday evening we continued with our first session of, "Resisting The Green Dragon." It is a very informative series concerning the tactics used by Satan to take our focus off of the Creator and onto the created.

First Baptist

Greetings! Mike Whaley blessed us with special music. Bro. Harry's message, "You Must Be Born Again," was taken from John. It is the story of Nicodemus wanting to know how to enter the Kingdom of Heaven. He was told that he had to be born again. It's impossible to be physically born again, but you can be spiritually re-born. When we are baptized, we go into the water a sinful person, but emerge with a new spiritual self. Never question God about anything, because He knows our thoughts and hearts.

At the close of our service, we recognized the newest addition to the Crozier family. Little Avia Joy, daughter of Aaron and Beth Crozier, was presented a Bible.

Pray for those in need of hope, healing, peace and love.

"The winds of God are always blowing, but you must set the sails!"

Harvest Community

Our righteousness must one: come from what God does in us, not what we can do by ourselves, two: be God centered, not self centered, three: be based on reverence for God, not approval from people and four: go beyond keeping the law to living by the principles behind the law. (Luke 18:9-14)

Sunday afternoon we witnessed the baptism service of Grant Miller and Amy Morton. We celebrate with them as they begin their new walk in faith and welcome them into fellowship of believers.

Upcoming March activities: at 8 a.m., March 15, men's meeting/breakfast. The youth will attend Winter Jam at Rupp Arena that evening. March 30, 5th Sunday dinner immediately following morning worship service.

Prayer concerns: Roger Utz, LR Faulkner, Jim Bergman, Max Wanstrath, Tex Pollard and Leonard Schack.

We welcome you to our services at 111 E. Shelby St. "Sharing love and Jesus in a practical way."

Mt. Moriah

February 23 was the first Sunday since we started meeting at the Senior Center that we were able to walk on "dry ground." No snow!

Bro. Breeden talked about learning to nestle rather than wrestle with God. Bro. Breeden also discussed five things that are in hell that ought to be in the church (prayer; placing value on all people; time for redemption; concern for souls and sufficiency of God's word.)

Several members of the church attended a concert at Northern Kentucky University last week. They were very inspired by the music that was presented.

Our prayer list includes Marlena Brown's brother, Ben Russell who is traveling with a music group, Billy Miller and Bobby Angell.

We are so happy to share that the Oldendick babies have arrived. They are small but very healthy. God answers prayer!

Spring is on the way. Enjoy life! "Praise be to you, O Lord, God of our father Israel, from everlasting to everlasting." I Chronicles 2:19.

New Hope

When will it end? That may be the question concerning winter right now. We want to prepare for spring and we want winter to end. We can look at the temperature and the calendar to know when winter is going to end. We can also ask this question about this world. The Bible tells us that one day it will end. We do not have a calendar that will tell us when it will end; we just have the promise that Christ said His return would be like a thief in the night. We do not know when it will end but we can prepare for it. You need to be prepared for the return of Christ. Are you ready?

New Zion

Come join us for worship and Christian fellowship. Sunday school begins at 10 a.m., morning worship is at 11 a.m., and evening worship starts at 6:30 p.m.

Upcoming opportunities: At 6 p.m., on March 7 we will have a movie and pizza pajama party for all the kids.

John 15:5 says, "I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing."

Please remember in prayer David Hale, Sadie and Hannah Perkins, Jeannie Tate, Barb Mains, Ann Cummins, Ann Branham, Ruth Smith, Nicole Mattingly, Jaydon Taylor, Sue Lucas and the Bailey family. Also pray for our country and its leaders.

Oakland Christian

We pray all have enjoyed the "better" weather. Spring is getting closer!

Oakland Christian Workers will meet at 11 a.m., on March 5 at Howard's Place, Falmouth. Ladies are always invited.

Starting at 6:30 p.m., March 5 will be a Prayer/Bible study each first and third Wednesday nights, taught by Bro. Jim Flaugher. (No meals.)

Set your clocks ahead one hour Saturday night, March 8.

Congratulations to John Michael Moore upon his graduation as an electronic technician in the Navy, graduating top of his class.

Our sympathy goes to the loved ones of Pat Crotty.

Pleasant Ridge

What a wonderful day to be in the house of the Lord.

Bro. Rick's message was from Zephaniah 3:2. "Sinful Jerusalem, city of violence and crime. She has not obeyed His voice. She has not received correction; she has not trusted in the Lord, she has not drawn near to her God."

Sins of omission are none the less a crime against God. The Lord is in the midst of us, He reads your thoughts and we are to trust in Him. God only corrects His own. We as Christians are expected to be corrected and draw near to Him.

Sunday evening Bible study will be from various books of the Bible on Christian belief.

Southside

On February 23, Bro. Kenny Allender, worship leader, led the congregation with the opening hymn, "We Will Glorify." Bro. Clay Sullivan preached the sermon, "Making the Best Out of Life," from Matthew 11:28-30. Bro. Clay preached on how we should always see the positive and always be thankful. The memory verse for the week comes from I Thessalonians 5:18, "Give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus."

Be in prayer for all in one way or another. Come and worship with us this Sunday. Sunday school at 9 a.m., and worship service at 10 a.m.

Turner Ridge

God is good! While we have continued to deal with the snowy winter, the blessings have far outweighed the snow.

February 7 there was a, "True Love Waits," youth lock-in, 36 attended the biblical taught call to sexual purity.

February 16 our Sunday school and morning worship focused on God our Creator. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living being." Genesis 2:7.

February 21-23, "Kindle the Fire," a youth sponsored week-end revival with a team from Campbellsville College and our C4 class leading in small groups and worship services. "Thus saith the Lord God; Behold, I will kindle a fire in thee." Ezekiel 20:47.

The weekend was amazing! We ask that you pray for the youth in our community. And for new members in our church family Bret, Amanda, Taylor and Cameron.

Maintaining conventional septic systems

Septic systems are used in Kentucky where municipal sewage treatment is not available. They are an effective, long-standing method of collecting, treating and disposing of homeowner wastewater, provided they are properly sited and installed. However, a well-sited, properly sized and installed system will fail if not properly maintained. A failed septic system creates problems such as noxious odors, lower property values, surface water contamination and groundwater pollution and may be a health hazard. Repair and replacement costs are considerable.

You can find additional information on assessing septic system performance and reducing the potential risk of groundwater contamination from a KY-A-Syst publication: Household Wastewater Treatment (IP-44.) You can use this self-evaluation to determine performance and for keeping the system maintained.

You can assemble several components to create an effective septic system. But the most common system Kentucky homeowners use is called a conventional system and consists of a septic tank and drainfield. The septic tank is a reinforced, watertight, concrete box buried in the ground near the house to provide primary treatment of the wastewater.

Sound operation and maintenance practices include water conservation, keeping harmful substances out of the system and having your system inspected and pumped on a regular basis. Good operation and maintenance practices start with everyone in the household knowing what damages the septic system. Having a diagram of the complete system indicating distances and locations of the tank and drainfield helps avoid practices that can harm the drainfield and assists in regular maintenance activities.

Pumping the septic tank regularly is probably the single most important thing you can do to protect the system. You should remove the solids that settle out in the tank every three to six years depending on water usage and the amount of inorganic materials entering the system. A guide to follow with a 1,000-gallon tank is to pump every three years for a household of four or more people and pump every six years for one with two people (increase times by one-half for 1,500-gallon tanks.)

You also can determine when you need to pump by opening the top of the tank and making some measurements and observations. Never inspect a tank alone, and never go down into a tank. Toxic gases are produced by the natural treatment processes in the tank and can kill quickly. Pump the tank when the sludge layer at the bottom of the tank is 18 inches deep or the scum layer thickens to within 3 inches of the outlet baffle or sanitary tee outlet.

Solids should be removed by a certified tank pumper and disposed of in an approved manner and location. Be sure that the pumper removes all of the material in the tank. It is not necessary to leave some sludge to "restart" the biological processes; nor is it necessary to scrub or disinfect the tank.

When not removed in a timely manner, overflowing solids from the tank accumulate in the drainfield clogging the soil and backing up the system. This damages the drainfield and may require constructing a new drainfield in a different location on the property.

The drainfield is the most important component of a conventional septic system. It provides final treatment of wastewater. The more water used in the household, the greater the possibility of having problems with the drainfield. Careful and regular maintenance of the tank extends drainfield life.

Water conservation reduces the amount of wastewater delivered to the drainfield. Keeping faucets and toilets from leaking with periodic checks and repairs certainly reduces wastewater. Do not allow foundation drains, roof gutters and other surface waters to enter the septic system.

Be aware of products or household systems that can damage or reduce the effectiveness of the septic system. Reducing garbage disposal use reduces the amount of solids going to the septic tank. Households with garbage disposal units produce about double the solids as those without such units.

The scum layer on top of the wastewater in the septic tank is primarily made up of oils, fats and grease from the kitchen. When homeowners use hot water to flush grease or fat down the drain, it may pass through the tank directly into the drainfield lines where it can rapidly clog soil pores.

Placing even small quantities of pesticides, paint thinners, solvents, drain cleaners, poisons and other harsh household chemicals into the septic system can kill the microbes in the tank and drainfield that decompose solids and purify the wastewater. Unfortunately, some organic solutions are not treated in the septic tank and can flow directly into the drainfield where they are not effectively treated by the soil before reaching the groundwater.

You need a generic groundwater protection plan for all septic systems in Kentucky, which you may find at your local county extension office, local libraries and most local health departments. Questions related to these plans should be addressed to the Kentucky Division of Water.

For more information, please read UK Cooperative Extension publication AGR-166: Maintaining Conventional Septic Systems at http://www.ca.uky.edu/agc/pubs/agr/agr166/agr166.htm or contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Getting children to like vegetables

"Ewww, not broccoli!" or "I'm not eating those carrots!" Are common phrases echoed by many children at mealtimes, but it doesn't have to be this way. Parents can do several things to get children to eat and enjoy a variety of fruits and vegetables.

Fruits and vegetables are important sources of fiber and many vitamins children need for their health, growth and development. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's MyPlate is a guideline for how to eat healthy. MyPlate suggests vegetables and fruits comprise half of a typical meal. Children develop food preferences at an early age so the earlier and more often children eat vegetables, the better.

Many children claim they do not like certain vegetables when they've never tasted them. Make sure your children taste a particular vegetable before they decide not to like it. Sometimes children don't like the way a vegetable is prepared, which causes them believe they don't like a vegetable. If your children don't like a cooked vegetable, try offering it raw or mixed with other foods and vice versa. You can set a good example for your children by consuming more vegetables and fruits yourself, especially during family mealtimes when children are watching you.

Parents should make sure children have ready access to fruits and vegetables. Make sure vegetables of some form are offered at every meal. Offering a variety of vegetables at mealtime will allow children to pick the one they like. Prewashing and keeping small bags of vegetables in the refrigerator allow the child to easily access and eat vegetables as snacks.

Children are more likely to try things that they've helped prepare. Growing a garden, letting your child help you cook and visiting a farmers market or grocery store and allowing them to select the vegetables are good ways to get children to eat vegetables.

Remember that serving sizes for children are smaller than adult serving sizes. A general guideline is one serving equals one tablespoon of a vegetable for each year of the child's age. Also remember that children are individuals and vary in how much they eat and what they like.

If your child still refuses a particular vegetable, keep trying. Children tend to fear new foods, and many times it will take them eight to 10 tries before they are ready to taste the vegetable. It may take them even longer to decide they like it.

Vegetables should be offered in a relaxed environment. Forcing, threatening, punishing or offering a reward for eating vegetables have proven to be unsuccessful strategies to get children to eat and like vegetables.

For more information on healthy eating, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H Youth Development

Pendleton County Extension Office

4-H camping season nears

Now is the time for young people and their parents to begin making plans for an annual summer ritual, 4-H Camp.

4-H camps are open to all Kentucky youth between the ages of nine and 14. At 4-H Camp, young people learn independence and responsibility, have a lot of fun and make new friends.

Many exciting activities and adventures await campers. 4-H'ers can spend their days participating in activities such as swimming, canoeing, high and low ropes, archery, recreation games, dances and nature hikes. These activities are a fun way to help young people learn new skills and develop a greater appreciation for the environment and wildlife.

Camper safety is a priority at 4-H Camp. All staff and volunteers are trained and undergo background checks prior to camp. Each camp will have an on-site emergency medical technician at all times to take care of campers' needs.

There are four regional camps, all of which have been accredited since 2005 by the American Camp Association.

4-H'ers from Pendleton County will attend North Central 4-H Camp in Carlisle KY, from August 3-6, 2014. Registration forms are due by June 1, 2014. The cost for camp is $100.00 and the registration forms can be picked up at your child's school or at the Extension Office.

For more information about 4-H Camp, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service or visit the 4-H Camp website at http://www2.ca.uky.edu/4-h/camp.

Bacon omelet roll by the Amish Cook

The Amish Cook

By Lovina Eicher

We are having thunder, lightning and rain right now. The temperature is just over the freezing mark so it turns the driveway into a sheet of ice. It's a challenge to walk on and for daughter Loretta so much more. She fell on her way out to the bus this morning. I hope she did not hurt herself. She is so ready to see the snow go away. It makes walking on it so difficult for her. She says she can't wait until it warms up and she can sit outside on her swing again.

Our school closed on Tuesday because of the five to six inches of snow we received Monday evening. Last Friday and Monday the children didn't have school either as it was their mid-winter break. I was hoping they would cancel the mid-winter break due to missing so many days already this year. The children ended up having a five day break. I hope they won't have to go to school longer at the end of the year. It is more difficult for the children to sit in school when it is so nice and warm outside. It's so much more difficult to concentrate when the days are sunny and warm.

We would like to butcher hogs soon, probably one of the next Saturdays. We are running low on sausage. I'm also using the last of our lard. We look forward to having "pon hoss" to eat after we butcher hogs (Editor's Note: some know this dish as "scrapple".) I don't think we will butcher a beef until one of the steers we are raising is big enough. I think the biggest one is around 600 pounds already. So it should be ready by this fall to butcher.

I am always glad to get that job over with and it's good to have more meat in the freezer. After that's over we can get started on spring cleaning. We were cleaning out some cabinets and drawers this week already. With the warmer weather I hope we can give the windows a good cleaning. Today is laundry day again. We want to wash some coats since the weather is warmer and the extra coats aren't needed yet. It sounds like we will have cold weather again by the weekend.

Lots of ice fishing is being done on all the nearby lakes. Those bluegills taste so much fresher when taken from ice water. My husband Joe bought an ice fishing shanty at a garage sale this summer so it has come in handy this winter. I managed to get through the basket of clothes that needed mending this week. Now I have a few more items I want to sew. I can always relax better to sew when the mending is up.

Bacon Omelet Roll

Ingredients:

- 8 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/3 cup flour
- 1 red pepper, finely chopped
- 8 slices bacon, crumbled
- 3 green onions, finely chopped
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 cup salsa

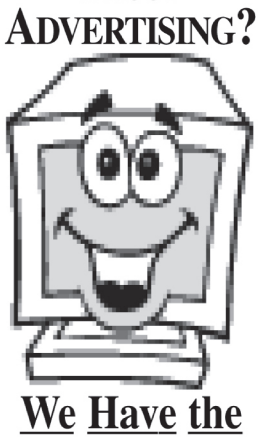

Directions:

Heat oven to 350. Line 15 x 10 x 1 inch pan with parchment paper with ends extending over shortest sides of pan. Spray with cooking spray.

Beat eggs, milk, and flour in a large bowl with whisk until blended. Stir in the next 4 ingredients. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 14-16 minutes or until edges are almost set. Top with cheese. Bake 2 minutes or until melted.

Roll up omelet immediately starting at one short end and peeling off paper as omelet is rolled. Place on platter, cut into slices. Serve with salsa.

Treat Your Taste Buds to New Orleans Bread Pudding

"Delicious like a warm hug!"

Linda Elmenhorst
Oilton, OK
(Pop. 1,013)

Your taste buds will take a trip to Louisiana when you try Linda Elmenhorst's New Orleans Bread Pudding. This dessert is perfectly light and fluffy while still remaining warm and hearty. The bourbon sauce is just right–far from overpowering–so don't be deterred! Have a second helping for me.

See step-by-step photos of Linda's recipe plus thousands more from home cooks nationwide at:

You'll also find a meal planner, coupons and chances to win! Enjoy and remember, use "just a pinch"...

- Janet

New Orleans Bread Pudding

What You Need

1 loaf french bread
1 qt milk
3 eggs
1 1/2 c sugar
1 c raisins
2 tbsp vanilla
3 tbsp butter

For Bourbon Sauce

1 stick butter
1 c sugar
1 egg, beaten
3 tbsp bourbon whiskey

Directions

- Tear bread in pieces and soak in milk at least one hour.
- Beat eggs with sugar and vanilla. Add to bread mixture. Stir in raisins.
- Melt 3 tbsp butter in oblong 9x13 baking dish. Pour pudding into dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.
- Let cool. Cut into serving cubes and place in bowls. Top with bourbon sauce.

Bourbon Sauce:

- In a saucepan, mix 1 cup sugar, 1 stick butter, 1 egg beaten and 3 tbsp bourbon whiskey.
- Cook on low heat until sugar has dissolved. Stir constantly.
